

Gan Kolski (Polish/American 1899-1932)
Pedestrian Sport, New York City, wood engraving on fine mica paper, 1929

Kolski was born in Poland and came to the United States as a teenager. He had strong socialist leanings and is included in an online exhibition “Comrades in Art.” This is a finely executed work on a rare mica paper. Kolski led a short and troubled life. In 1932 he jumped to his death from New York’s George Washington Bridge.
